

Call for Papers

10th International Conference on Global Public Health 2025

"Happiness, Well-being, and Resilience in changing world"

Happiness, Well-being, and Resilience in Changing world emphasizes the importance of maintaining emotional, mental, and physical well-being in the face of global uncertainties. As societies face rapid shifts—whether due to technological advancements, climate change, or social disruptions—resilience becomes crucial for sustaining happiness and overall quality of life. This theme highlights the need for individuals and communities to develop adaptive strategies that promote mental health, social support, and personal growth. It underscores the connection between thriving in turbulent times and cultivating resilience to navigate and recover from challenges."

The 10th Global Public Health 2025 is a global forum where public health professionals, researchers, policymakers, academics, students, practitioners and community facilitators come together to strengthen efforts to improve the quality of public health delivery and to share the latest research to promote best practices.

The conference attracts speakers from the Americas, Europe, Asia and Oceania/Pacific Regions. There are opportunities to present research findings, case studies, review articles. If your work is still in progress or proposals for future research, they are all worthy of consideration. Whether an established researcher or a student, you can safely present, respond to questions and discuss a wide range of topics in a very supportive and friendly environment. The conference can be especially useful for first time and early career presenters.

Public Health is a growing area of interest Globally, with some countries looking to focus more on prevention going forward rather than having a treatment/illness orientation. This conference could give opportunity for you to engage in those debates, network, publish your work and as an added bonus, it may also be possible to visit community projects the conference includes the opportunity (optional).

We believe the 10th International Conference on Global Public Health 2025 provides an interesting and supportive environment for researchers, academics, practitioners, policy makers and post-graduate students, to share knowledge, exchange ideas and establish academic relationships.

GPH2025 accepts the following types of submissions:

- Abstracts, Research Papers, Student Papers, Case Studies, Review article
- Work-in-Progress Reports or Proposals for Future Research: Incomplete research or ideas for future research to initiate discussion.
- NGO projects ongoing or completed, case studies on success stories
- Reports on Issues Related to the conference topics: Reports related to innovative techniques or research
- Video or any digital contents related to the conference themes

Proposals are accepted as long as presenter time is available or by 30 May 2025 at latest. All submissions will be reviewed, and acceptance or rejections is based on many factors. Notification on acceptance will be forwarded within 5 working days after receipt.

SESSIONS/TRACKS

- PANDEMIC PREPAREDNESS AND RESPONSE
- MENTAL HEALTH INTEGRATION
- HEALTH DISPARITIES AND EQUITY
- CLIMATE CHANGE AND HEALTH
- NON-COMMUNICABLE DISEASES (NCDs)
- MATERNAL AND CHILD HEALTH
- DIGITAL HEALTH AND TELEMEDICINE
- VACCINE EQUITY
- OBESITY AND NUTRITION
- GLOBAL HEALTH SECURITY

You all are welcome to GPH2025!

Professor Paul Illingworth (Head of Leicester School of Allied Health Sciences, De Montfort University, England)

Dr. Irrgang, Klaus (Associate Professor of Wellness, Faculty of Science, Burman University, Canada)

Co-Chairpersons (Academics) - Global Public Health 2025